

With all the recent incidents occurring over the air (Howard Stern and several other crack downs by the FCC) I am appalled that the "local" stations are trying to limit anything that allows me to choose and listen to clean children friendly stations only, or mature stations and not be suprised by shocking attempts to win listeners. If that is through traffic, sports, music or any other station I choose that should be my right. I believe that the local sources for entertainment and information have been so tainted by the sex and shock effect for the almighty dollar that they forfeit their "rights" to try and stop anyone from providing quality transmissions. This is an attempt for bullies to once again shut down what people want in the interest of themselves, not the people as a whole. It is also a crock that Marsha MacBride, the NAB's new Executive Vice President for Legal and Regulatory Affairs, took her position last year, fresh off a two-year stint as the FCC's chief of staff. I just hope that the people actually win one for our good and not the system of backdoor politics that usually end up happening in these type of situations.
